INCORPORATION OF CORUS

Organization and Name

Corus Entertainment Inc. (“Corus” or the “Company”) is a diversified Canadian communications and entertainment company whose principal business activities are the operation of radio stations; the operation of specialty television networks, pay television services and conventional television stations; and the Corus content business, which consists of the production and distribution of films and television programs, merchandise licensing, publishing and animation software.

The Company was originally incorporated under the Canada Business Corporations Act as 3470652 Canada Inc. on March 3, 1998. Corus amended its articles to change its name to Corus Entertainment Inc. on May 28, 1999 and subsequently amended its articles on August 26, 1999 to create additional classes of shares.

On December 18, 2003, the Company amended its articles to state that no Class A Voting Shares may be issued unless the prior written consent of holders of no fewer than two-thirds of existing Class A Voting Shares is obtained. The Company also amended its articles on January 9, 2008 to implement a two-for-one stock split of its Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares (each such term as defined below under the heading “Capital Structure”), effective February 1, 2008.

Corus commenced operations on September 1, 1999. On that date, pursuant to a statutory plan of arrangement (“the Arrangement”), Corus was separated from Shaw Communications Inc. (“Shaw”) as an independently operated, publicly traded company and assumed ownership of Shaw’s radio broadcasting, specialty television, digital audio services and cable advertising services businesses, as well as certain investments held by Shaw.

Pursuant to the Arrangement, Class A shareholders of Shaw received one Class A participating share of Shaw (“Shaw Class A Share”) and one-third of a Class A participating share of Corus (“Corus Class A Voting Share”) for each Shaw Class A Share previously held by them. Class B non-voting shareholders of Shaw received one Class B non-voting participating share of Shaw (“Shaw Class B Share”) and one-third of one Class B non-voting participating share of Corus (“Corus Class B Non-Voting Share”) for each Shaw Class B Share previously held by them.

On September 3, 1999, the Corus Class B Non-Voting Shares were listed and posted for trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange (CJR.B). On May 10, 2000, Corus Class B Non-Voting Shares were listed for trading on the New York Stock Exchange (CJR). The Company voluntarily delisted from the New York Stock Exchange on August 4, 2010. On August 16, 2011, Corus filed a Form 15F with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) to voluntarily terminate registration of its Class B Non-Voting Shares, with the deregistration being effective 90 days after the Form 15F filing date.

Corus’ registered office is located at 1500, 850 – 2nd Street SW, Calgary, Alberta T2P 0R8 and its executive office is located at Corus Quay, 25 Dockside Drive, Toronto, Ontario, M5A 0B5.

GENERAL DEVELOPMENT OF THE BUSINESS¹

Founded in September 1999, Corus is a Canadian-based media and entertainment company that creates, broadcasts and licenses content across a variety of platforms for audiences around the world. The Company's portfolio of multimedia offerings encompasses specialty television and radio with additional assets in pay television, television broadcasting, children's book publishing, children's animation and animation software. Corus' brands include YTV, TELETOON, ABC Spark, W Network, OWN: Oprah Winfrey Network (Canada), HBO Canada, Historia and Séries+, as well as Nelvana, Kids Can Press, Toon Boom and 39 radio stations including CKNW AM 980, 99.3 The FOX, Country 105, 630 CHED, Fresh FM London, JUMP! 106.9, Q107 and 102.1 the Edge.

Significant Acquisitions and Divestitures

In the second quarter of fiscal 2011, the Company completed the sale of eleven of its Corus Quebec radio stations to Cogeco Inc. for a purchase price of $84 million.

On April 30, 2013, the Company disposed of its 20% interest in Food Network Canada to Shaw Media, a division of Shaw, for $66.8 million, resulting in a gain of $55.4 million. Contemporaneously, on April 30, 2013, the Company acquired the remaining 49% interest in the voting shares of ABC Spark from Shaw, increasing Corus' ownership interest to 100%. The Company received non-interest bearing promissory note from Shaw of $47.8 million to satisfy the net consideration in respect of these transactions.

¹ The industry and the nature of Corus' business is evolving rapidly. We therefore suggest that the reader verify the content herein with our quarterly Reports to Shareholders which are available at www.corusent.com in the Investor Relations section.

On March 4, 2013, Corus entered into three separate purchase agreements with Bell Media Inc. (“Bell”) pursuant to which Corus agreed to acquire from Bell: (a) the 50% interest in a television network business, TELETOON Canada Inc. (“TELETOON”) that was not already owned by Corus; (b) a 50% interest in the French language television specialty channels, Historia and Séries+ s.e.n.c. (“H&S”); and (c) two Ottawa based broadcasting radio stations known under the call letters CKQB FM and CJOT FM. Corus also entered into a separate purchase agreement on November 29, 2013, with Shaw to acquire the remaining 50% interest in H&S (together with TELETOON, the “Television Businesses”).

As a consequence of an amendment to TELETOON’S underlying shareholders agreement and changes to its board composition, Corus gained majority board representation effective September 1, 2013. As a result, in addition to other factors, Corus determined it had acquired control of TELETOON on September 1, 2013 and as such, began consolidating the TELETOON financial results for accounting purposes as of September 1, 2013. The acquisitions of the Television Businesses were completed on January 1, 2014. The acquisition of the Ottawa radio stations was completed on January 31, 2014.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BUSINESS

In fiscal 2014, Corus’ principal business activities were conducted through two operating segments: Radio and Television, as described below.

The breakdown of revenues by business for the two most recent fiscal years is as follows:

Year ended August 31	2014	2013
Television	660,424	567,845
Radio	172,592	183,691
Total revenues	833,016	751,536

Revenue streams in fiscal 2014 were derived primarily from three areas: advertising, subscriber fees and merchandising, distribution and other, which represented 49%, 40% and 11%, respectively, of total revenues. In fiscal 2013, advertising, subscriber fees and merchandising, distribution and other, represented 47%, 37% and 16%, respectively, of total revenues.

RADIO

Description of the Industry

In April 1998, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (“CRTC”) adopted a revised radio multiple ownership policy. In any market where there are at least eight commercial radio stations in English or French, a single owner can own as many as two AM and two FM stations in that language.

In its most recent statistics, CRTC data states that as of August 31, 2013, there were 720 private commercial radio stations in Canada, of which 82% were FM stations and 18% were AM stations.

The commercial radio industry is dependent upon airtime advertising revenues for economic performance and growth. According to the CRTC, the industry generated $1.6 billion in revenues in 2013, consistent with the previous year. Radio stations compete for advertising dollars with other radio stations and many other forms of media. According to industry sources, the radio industry captures approximately 12% of all advertising spending in Canada, compared to the newspaper, television industries and digital, which capture approximately 14%, 26% and 31% of the total, respectively. According to the CRTC, in 2013, local advertising and national advertising represented 69% and 29%, respectively, of total radio advertising revenues. In 2013, the top five radio markets (Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton) based on total revenue reported to the CRTC, accounted for approximately 46% of total revenues in the Canadian radio industry.

Radio is an efficient, cost-effective medium for advertisers to reach specific demographic groups in specific geographical areas. Stations are typically classified by their on-air format, such as classic rock, modern/mainstream rock, country, greatest hits, hot adult contemporary/classic hit radio and news/talk. A stations' format and style of presentation enables it to target certain demographics in a market. By capturing a specific share of the radio listening audience, with particular concentration in a targeted demographic, a station is able to market its audience to advertisers. Advertisers and stations utilize data published by audience measuring services, such as Numeris (formerly Bureau of Broadcast Measurement Canada "BBM"), to estimate how many people within particular geographic and demographic markets listen to specific stations. The number of advertisements that can be broadcast without jeopardizing listening levels, and the resulting ratings, is determined primarily by the format of a particular station and the local competitive environment. The number of advertisements that can be broadcast is not regulated.

Numeris introduced a measurement system called the portable people meter ("PPM") in fiscal 2009. The PPM was first launched in Montreal in December 2008 and subsequently, in other major metropolitan cities across Canada in June 2009. It is a passive electronic device which measures actual listening as opposed to relying on the listener to accurately record habits in a diary. The PPM device registers all radio station exposures over a period of time and in any environment. This accounts for personal listening as well as second-hand exposure (i.e. in a store or dentist office). The PPM technology provides more accurate and granular audience tracking data than the paper-based recall diary method and results have been positive, demonstrating that radio continues to be a growth medium. The PPM measurement system is currently used in the Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton radio markets.

Radio broadcasters are continuing to see the importance of new media platforms which work in tandem with traditional radio stations. Listeners want convenience and accessibility (i.e. content whenever and wherever they want it on multiple platforms). Strong local websites exist for each station to offer advertisers an opportunity to complement on-air campaigns with an interactive element. A successful combination of on-air, online and on-site will lead to increased brand awareness for the radio broadcaster and the advertiser, translating into a rise in ratings and advertising revenues.

Advances in digital technology made subscription radio a reality. Subscription or satellite radio provides a number of channels of programming to listeners for a monthly fee. Two licenses which distribute digital signals via satellite were awarded by the CRTC and launched in 2005. In 2011, the two licensees merged.

Music streaming apps offer listeners ubiquitous access on smartphones, tablets, and car audio systems. Furthermore, listeners have the ability to personalize their music content based on their musical preferences.

Competitive Conditions

The financial success of each of Corus' radio stations is dependent principally upon its share of the overall advertising revenues within its geographic market, its promotional and other expenses incurred to obtain the revenues and the economic strength of its geographic market. Radio advertising revenues are highly dependent upon audience share. Audience share is derived from listener interest in on-air talent, music formats, and other intangible factors. This can be influenced by the competition. Other stations may change programming formats to compete directly with Corus' stations for listeners and advertisers, or launch aggressive promotional campaigns in support of already existing competitive formats. If a competitor, particularly one with substantial financial resources, were to attempt to compete in either of these fashions, ratings at Corus' affected stations could be negatively impacted, resulting in lower net revenues.

Radio broadcasting is also subject to competition from other broadcast, online and print media. Potential advertisers can substitute advertising through the broadcast television system (which can offer concurrent exposure on a number of networks to enlarge the potential audience), daily, weekly and free-distribution newspapers, outdoor billboard advertising, magazines, other print media, direct mail marketing, the Internet and mobile advertising. Competing media commonly target the customers of their competitors, and advertisers regularly shift dollars from radio to these competing media and vice versa. In markets near the U.S. border, such as Kingston, Corus also competes with U.S. radio stations.

Traditional radio and satellite radio face increased competition from music streaming apps. These music streaming apps, such as Pandora, Spotify, and Songza, are competing for listening time with radio and are beginning to make their presence felt in the car, which is where a large percentage of traditional and satellite radio consumption occurs.

Business Overview and Operating Strategy

Business Overview

The Company's Radio division is comprised of 39 radio stations situated primarily in high-growth urban centres in English Canada, with a concentration in the densely populated area of Southern Ontario. Corus is one of Canada's leading radio operators in terms of audience reach. Corus Radio's primary method of distribution is over-the-air, analog radio transmission. Each radio station's content is available to audiences through traditional analog radio receivers at the particular station's licensed frequency on the AM or FM band. Corus Radio also delivers its content online and on mobile platforms.

Corus Radio is the third largest radio operator in Canada in terms of audience tuning. According to the BBM's (now Numeris) Fall Survey 2013, Corus had a 13% share of English language tuning, behind BCE Inc. which had a 24% share of English language tuning and Rogers Communications, which had the second highest share of English language tuning at 14%.

Corus Radio operates news/talk stations in seven out of Canada's ten largest markets by population (Toronto, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Hamilton and London) and is one of the largest news/talk operators in Canada. Corus is well positioned in the largest Canadian market, Toronto, through its three stations that focus on Adults 18-64: Q107, 102.1 the Edge and Talk Radio AM640. Corus Radio's news/talk stations continue to be the most listened to AM stations in Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Winnipeg, as measured by BBM (now Numeris).

Corus owns a 50% stake in Canadian Broadcast Sales ("CBS"), in partnership with Rogers Media. CBS is the largest national radio sales organization in Canada. CBS' collective market presence reaches 81% of Canada's total population. CBS represents 46 broadcasters and more than 540 radio stations (including repeaters) in 250 Canadian markets.

Corus Radio derives the majority of its revenues from advertising sales. Revenues for fiscals 2014 and 2013 were $172.6 million and $183.7 million, respectively.

Revenues from Corus Radio are derived mainly from two types of advertising: (a) local advertisers who are generally local merchants and who operate in the trading area encompassed by the station's signal; and (b) national businesses such as automotive manufacturers, breweries, banks, retail, fast food chains and similar operations which develop national advertising campaigns. The extent to which Corus' advertising revenues are from local or national advertising depends on each given market.

Corus Radio targets a number of demographic groups. The group that garners the most advertiser dollars is Adults 25-54 (A25-54). Corus Radio stations are competitive in the top four most sought after demographically targeted groups: A25-54, A18-49, A35-54 and Female 25-49 (F25-49).

Corus Radio broadcasts in six key formats on 39 stations across Canada. The formats are news/talk, classic rock, modern/mainstream rock, country, greatest hits and hot adult contemporary ("Hot AC"/classic hit radio ("CHR")).

In addition to advertising revenues, Corus Radio derives a smaller portion of its revenues through non-traditional revenue sources (non-airtime). Websites have become an essential component of Corus Radio's brand awareness strategy. Corus Radio has very loyal listeners that continue to be connected to the station for the music, on-air hosts, events and information-entertainment that is present on Corus Radio's websites. Corus Radio currently receives approximately 5.7 million visits to its 39 websites each month, with nearly 10 million monthly page views.

Corus Radio has a clustering strategy, pairing AM and FM radio stations to the limits allowed by the CRTC based on the size of the market. Clustering improves operating performance by expanding demographic coverage of the market, thereby providing local and national advertisers with an attractive and efficient medium with which to allocate their advertising dollars. Clustering also provides opportunities to share costs among stations in the cluster, thereby improving operating margins.

Audio streaming through websites affords the broadcaster and the advertiser a more personal connection with the listener, which is not available through traditional radio. In early 2009, Corus Radio was the first radio broadcaster to launch an iPhone streaming application. Corus Radio's applications, designed for smartphones, have proven to be very attractive to listeners. More than 7 million users per month stream Corus Radio stations, with more than 6.3 million hours tuned per month. Over 70% of streaming is on mobile devices.

Driving greater brand loyalty by investing in digital and interactive media that provides more contact points with audiences is a key strategy for Corus Radio. Corus is a strategic partner in SoCast Inc. ("SoCast"). SoCast is a developer of social relationship management (SRM) tools. SoCast's SRM tools help Corus Radio drive audience engagement and community interaction. The SoCast platform, which was recently rolled out across all 39 Corus Radio station websites, provides digital tools that leverage social media to engage more fans, increase listenership, and drive revenue. Corus Radio is actively engaged on key social media platforms. More than 1.25 million people are engaged with Corus Radio's stations on Facebook and more than 357,000 people follow Corus Radio's station feeds on Twitter.

Operating Strategy

Corus believes that radio is a business that has growth potential. It's a cost effective way for advertisers to reach targeted consumers. It's measurable, both in terms of metrics and actions by consumers. It's a business that's not capital intensive and has a long and successful record as a proven business model that creates substantial free cash flow. Additionally, Radio has a higher proportion of fixed costs than variable costs, which results in high operating leverage. Radio revenue growth has, for the most part, been in step with Canada's GDP growth, which holds promise for the radio industry in the years ahead.

Corus Radio seeks to lead in the market for its target demographic groups. Corus Radio is competitively positioned in local markets in terms of formats, ratings and demographic appeal. It has built a growth strategy based on its strength in reaching large, local audiences in two major segments: news and information, and music programming targeted to audience segments that have significant spending power. Corus Radio's stations attract audiences that are significant in both the female and male demographics. Corus Radio is committed to controlling costs and delivering one of the best operating margins in the industry.

In recent quarters, Corus Radio has faced ratings and revenue softness. Corus management implemented a Radio turnaround plan that targeted programming strategies and refined the sales structure to significantly lower Corus Radio's cost base and position the division for a return to growth. On the programming front, the plan included extensive research in Corus' key markets to help shape programming strategies and branding solutions.

Corus Radio recognizes that the demand for multiple platforms which are complementary to radio will fuel future growth. The Radio team believes that digital distribution and interactivity are two key concepts for its future. Corus Radio will continue to leverage digital media to expand its audience and provide new opportunities to advertisers through a series of strong local websites which complement Corus' radio stations.

TELEVISION

Corus Television is comprised of specialty television networks, pay television services, three conventional television stations, and the Corus content business, which consists of the production and distribution of films and television programs, merchandise licensing, publishing and animation software.

Description of the Industry

Specialty and Pay Television Networks

Broadcasting distribution undertakings ("BDUs") reported that there were approximately 11.9 million subscribers to television programming services in 2013. There were approximately 8.8 million cable and Internet protocol television (“IPTV”) subscribers and 2.7 million direct-to-home (“DTH”) satellite and multipoint distribution systems (“MDS”) subscribers. In 2013, digital subscribers represented 84% of BDU subscribers.

Specialty and pay television networks, along with pay-per-view (“PPV”) and video-on-demand (“VOD”), generated $4.1 billion of combined advertising and subscriber revenues in 2013. Specialty and pay television networks are available to those Canadians who subscribe to the service package of a particular BDU (i.e. cable television, IPTV, DTH satellite or MDS). Specialty television networks provide special interest, news, sports, arts and entertainment programming, while pay television networks provide commercial-free movies, series and special event programming.

Specialty and pay television networks each obtain revenues by charging a monthly subscriber fee to cable television providers, IPTV providers and DTH satellite operators. Subscriber fees are the sole source of revenues for licensed pay television services, while specialty television networks can also generate advertising revenues unless prohibited under their CRTC conditions of license.

The amount of the subscriber fee is specified in the network’s agreement with the BDU. Since all subscribers receive at least basic service, specialty television networks that are carried on a basic tier typically have a much higher number of subscribers. The number of subscribers for a specialty network on a discretionary tier depends primarily upon pricing and subscriber preference. A specialty television network’s subscriber penetration will also benefit from the extent to which it is packaged or tiered with other popular specialty television networks. As a consequence, discretionary specialty television networks that are popular, or are otherwise packaged with popular specialty television networks, can generally be priced at rates above those for specialty television networks carried on basic service.

Specialty and pay television services are grouped under five categories: Category A, Category B, Category C, Pay and section 9(1)(h). Services that are ethnic and with small subscription levels operate exempt from licensing. Each category comes with certain carriage rights and obligations, including exhibition and Canadian content. Category A services are an amalgamation of analog pay and specialty services, and digital services formerly defined as Category 1 digital services. Category B services were formerly defined as Category 2 digital services. Category A services have format protection and mandatory carriage while Category B services do not have protection of format and are not mandatory to carry. Category C services provide programming in genres that are exempt from the CRTC’s format protection rules. This applies to all national news and mainstream sports broadcasting services. Pay television services do not have format protection, but have carriage rights. Foreign services such as CNN, A&E and AMC are non-Canadian programming services authorized for distribution by the CRTC. Foreign services are exempt from exhibition and Canadian content obligations.

Unlike pay television networks which are prevented, by CRTC regulations, from obtaining advertising revenues, specialty television networks may obtain both subscriber and national advertising revenues unless specifically prohibited by their conditions of license. Specialty television networks appeal to advertisers seeking highly targeted markets. The CRTC limits national advertising to 12 minutes or less an hour for specialty services but does not regulate advertising rates, and specialty television networks are not required to share a portion of their advertising revenues with the BDUs. According to the CRTC, television advertising in 2013 totaled approximately $3.4 billion in Canada. Specialty and pay television networks, along with PPV and VOD, received a 38% share of total television advertising revenues, or approximately $1.3 billion in 2013, compared to approximately $1.3 billion or a 36% share of total television advertising revenues in 2012.

Over the past decade, Canadian specialty and pay television networks have experienced subscriber growth due to advances in cable-based delivery systems and the growth of DTH satellite services and IPTV providers. In 2013, subscriber revenue for specialty and pay television services of $2.4 billion was up 5.5% from 2012.

Conventional Television

Conventional television stations are licensed by the CRTC and provide over-the-air broadcast television signals to viewers within a local geographical market or on a network basis. In addition to receiving conventional television signals off-air, the majority of Canadian viewers have access, either directly or through a BDU, to the television signals of U.S. border stations, which are generally affiliated with one of the four U.S. commercial networks (ABC, NBC, CBS and Fox) and a Public Broadcasting Service station. The CRTC mandates that Canadian BDUs must distribute the signal of a local or regional conventional station in place of the signal of a foreign television station when the two stations are broadcasting identical programming simultaneously. This is referred to as simultaneous substitution. Canadian conventional television stations generate revenue from advertising and receive no subscription revenues. There is no limit to commercial messages that a conventional television station may broadcast. The success of conventional television is dependent on the quality of programming, which results in audience ratings that, in turn, attract advertisers to a station or network. Since August 31, 2011, over-the-air television stations in certain areas stopped broadcasting analog signals and started broadcasting digital signals.

Production and Distribution

Demand for animated children's programming is still strong, however, kids are consuming content differently. The launch of numerous segmented networks in the North American television broadcasting industry has provided viewers with greater channel selection. There are now numerous television networks around the world that broadcast dedicated children's programming blocks and other programming exclusively for children. Also, over-the-top ("OTT") platforms such as Netflix, Amazon and YouTube are becoming increasingly popular with children.

The expansion of OTT platforms has fundamentally changed the production and distribution business. More and more children are getting their content on digital platforms rather than traditional television. Furthermore, the physical home video market is in decline due to the rise of electronic home video. By 2016, North American electronic home video revenue will likely exceed physical home video revenue. North American physical home video is expected to decline by a 6.4% Compound Annual Growth Rate ("CAGR") between 2013 and 2018. On the other hand, North American OTT revenue, which is a part of electronic home video revenue, is expected to grow by 24.0% (CAGR) between 2013 and 2018.

According to industry sources, total global spending on filmed entertainment, which includes feature films, video, television shows, animation and other programming worldwide, is expected to grow from an estimated US$88.3 billion in 2013 to US$110.1 billion in 2018.

Merchandising

The sale of licensed entertainment merchandise is a multi-billion dollar industry. In 2013, the sale of licensed entertainment merchandise accounted for US $51.4 billion in retail sales in the United States and Canada. Sales were up 4.3% from the prior year and merchandise from children's television programming was a big driver.

Publishing

According to industry sources, global consumer and education book publishing sales were over US$99.3 billion in 2013, which was consistent to 2012. However, the global electronic consumer book segment rose by 34.7% in 2013. Global electronic consumer book sales are expected to see compound annual growth of 17.6% between 2013 and 2018.

Animation Software

Concurrent with advancements in technology, animation software is now available to everyone, from home users to creative professionals. Demand for animated content and therefore, animation software, has increased with growth in the number of television networks dedicated to animated content as well as growth in digital platforms such as the Internet.

Digital Technology

Technology is driving more consumer change today than ever before, by allowing consumers to access content anywhere, anytime. Mobile platforms, from smartphones to tablets, are growing quickly. The applications market offers a viable business model for new media, and social networking has become a driving force in marketing, community and communications.

A trend in the television sector is the introduction of innovative products and services tailored to the digital environment. TV broadcasters and BDUs have turned to mobile platforms, commonly referred to as “TV Everywhere” platforms to increase the value proposition of traditional television and reduce the amount of “cord cutting”, which is when customers drop their television subscription in favour of accessing content through OTT, over-the-air or other on-demand services. TV Everywhere platforms allow television customers to access content through internet-based services such as apps.

Competitive Conditions

Advertising revenues

According to the CRTC, in 2013, the Canadian specialty television networks generated $1.3 billion of specialty advertising revenues. Numerous conventional and specialty television networks compete with Corus for advertising revenues. Corus’ television networks face competition for advertising dollars with several other forms of media including print, outdoor, radio and digital. Digital advertising has grown significantly and now accounts for the largest share of advertising spending in Canada. Corus’ conventional television stations compete principally for viewers and advertisers with other television stations that broadcast in central and eastern Ontario.

Subscriber revenues

The CRTC reports that in 2013, Canadian specialty and pay television networks generated $2.4 billion of subscriber revenue. Corus’ pay television networks in western Canada are providers of premium movies and series, also offering classic movies to subscribers. These networks compete with pay-per-view movie offerings as well as video-on-demand offerings. In addition, competition among specialty television services in Canada is highly dependent upon the offering of prices, marketing and advertising support, and other incentives to BDUs for carriage. These offers and incentives are designed to favourably position and package the services to subscribers so as to ultimately achieve higher distribution levels. Increasingly, Corus’ specialty and pay television networks are competing with OTT players that are not regulated by the CRTC. OTT platforms have gained traction in Canada and are having a significant impact on specialty and pay networks. Furthermore, the CRTC continues to grant new specialty television licenses, which further increases competition. Corus’ services also compete with a number of foreign programming networks which have been authorized for distribution in Canada by the CRTC, such as CNN, A&E and AMC.

Programming expenditures

Programming costs are one of the most significant expenses for Corus television. Although the Company has processes to effectively manage these costs, new competitors, particularly OTT platforms, are impacting the availability and price of content which could materially adversely impact Corus’ results of operations.

Content business

The production and distribution of children’s television, books and other media content is very competitive. There are numerous domestic and international suppliers of media content, including vertically integrated major motion picture studios, television networks, independent television production companies, toy companies and children’s book publishers. Many of these competitors are significantly larger than Corus and have substantially greater resources, including easier access to capital. Corus competes with other television and motion picture production companies for ideas and storylines created by third parties, as well as for actors, directors and other personnel required for a production.

Further, vertical integration of the television broadcast industry worldwide, and the creation and expansion of new networks which create a substantial portion of their own programming, have decreased the number of available timeslots for programs produced by third-party production companies.

Publishing

Canadian publishers face difficult market conditions. The rapid acceptance of electronic publishing, such as e-books, is transforming the industry. Electronic publishing tends to favour large multinational corporations that have the financial capacity to exploit new technology. Canadian publishers must also compete with large multinational publishers on price. Large multinationals have lower costs due to significant economies of scale. Also, the consolidation of retail outlets in Canada has meant less shelf space for Canadian books.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION CONCERNING CORUS' BUSINESSES

a) Intangible Properties

Corus uses a number of trade marks, service marks and official marks for its products and services. Many of these brands and marks are owned and registered by Corus, and those trade marks that are not registered are protected by common law. Corus also licenses certain marks from third parties. Corus has taken affirmative legal steps to protect its owned and licensed trade marks, and Corus believes its trademark position is adequately protected. The exclusive rights to trade marks depend upon the Company's efforts to use and protect these and Corus does so vigorously.

Distribution rights to television programming and motion pictures as well as ancillary rights are granted legal protection under the copyright laws and other laws of Canada, the United States and most foreign countries. These laws impose substantial civil and criminal sanctions for the unauthorized duplication and exhibition of television programming. Corus believes that it takes, and plans to continue taking, all appropriate and reasonable measures to secure, protect and maintain or obtain agreements from licensees to secure, protect and maintain copyright and other legal protections for all of the television programming produced and distributed by Corus under the laws of all applicable jurisdictions.

Corus can give no assurance that its actions to establish and protect Corus' trade marks and other proprietary rights will be adequate to prevent imitation or copying of its filmed and animated entertainment by others or to prevent third parties from seeking to block sales of its filmed and animated entertainment as a violation of their trade marks and proprietary rights.

Moreover, Corus can give no assurance that others will not assert rights in, or ownership of, its trade marks and other proprietary rights, or that Corus will be able to successfully resolve these conflicts. In addition, the laws of certain foreign countries may not protect proprietary rights to the same extent as do the laws of the United States and Canada.

Corus also licenses copyright materials by way of direct contracting or through blanket licensing regimes. The tariffs for blanket licenses are established by the Copyright Board in Canada. Although the amount of a blanket license is set by this third party regulator, the system provides certainty as to cost and also a modicum of immunity from claim for innocent infringements due to the presumptions of right to use works that flow with the imposition of these tariffs.

The Company operates a comprehensive clearance and rights management system to both protect its rights and to ensure that works that Corus uses have the requisite clearances or licenses from the owners. A key element of contracts for copyright works is the term or time period of the license granted, which in the broadcasting sector can vary, but usually is for a time period such as one to three years. In some circumstances, the time period is combined with a right to only a certain number of "plays" or broadcasts. Rights management in a digital business environment is becoming increasingly complex due to challenges with definitions, semantics and taxonomic issues related to contractual rights.

b) Seasonality and Cycles

Corus' operating results are subject to seasonal fluctuations that can significantly impact quarter-to-quarter operating results. Accordingly, one-quarter's operating results are not necessarily indicative of what a subsequent quarter's operating results will be.

For the Company's broadcasting businesses, operating results are dependent on general advertising and retail cycles associated with consumer spending activity. Accordingly, operating results for the first fiscal quarter tend to be the strongest, reflecting pre-Christmas advertising activity.

For the Company's production and distribution business, operating results are dependent on such things as the timing and number of television programs made available for delivery in the period, as well as timing of merchandising royalties received, none of which can be predicted with certainty. Consequently, these operating results may fluctuate significantly from quarter to quarter. Cash flows may also fluctuate and are not necessarily closely related to revenue recognition.

c) Economic Dependence

Corus' operating results for the Company's broadcasting businesses are not dependent upon any single customer or upon a few customers with respect to revenues from advertisers.

Corus Television's pay television services are solely dependent on subscriber fees. The major BDU partners for these services are Shaw Cable, Bell TV, Shaw Direct and Telus.

The Company's regulated properties operate in a competitive environment with both regulated and unregulated competitors. New competition always poses a risk to the Company's revenue streams. The regulatory environment is more fully explained below.

d) Environmental Protection

Corus' operations do not have any significant impact on the environment. Corus has not made, and does not anticipate making, any significant capital expenditures to comply with environmental regulations.

e) Employees

As at August 31, 2014, Corus had approximately 2,000 employees. The Company operates in a non-union environment except for approximately 80 employees in conventional television and radio who are members of Unifor.

f) Foreign Operations

Approximately 4% of Corus' consolidated revenues for the year ended August 31, 2014 were derived from foreign operations. These consist primarily of revenues from the Company's international content distribution business and merchandising.

g) Lending

Corus does not have any lending operations as a distinct or significant business. Corus has an outstanding loan to one of its executive officers which was granted prior to July 31, 2002. Corus may make loan investments in companies involved in the media sector of up to $5 million with the approval of the chief executive officer ("CEO") or the chief financial officer ("CFO") and more than $5 million with the approval of the Board of Directors.

h) Bankruptcy

There have been no bankruptcies, receiverships or similar proceedings against Corus or any of its subsidiaries within the past three years.

i) Reorganizations

In fiscal 2012, the Company undertook a restructuring of certain functions within its operations as a continuation of its efforts to streamline processes. This resulted in the Company recording a charge of $2.3 million in fiscal 2012.

In fiscal 2013, the Company undertook a restructuring to realign the organizational structure and incurred certain costs related to pending business combinations. This resulted in the Company recording a charge of $7.3 million in fiscal 2013.

In fiscal 2014, the Company incurred $14.9 million in restructuring costs related to the organizational structure realignment and the integration of recent business acquisitions.

j) Social or Environmental Factors

Corus is committed to fair dealing, honesty and integrity in all aspects of its business conduct. The Company takes its responsibility to its employees, shareholders and other stakeholders very seriously. The Company's Code of Business Conduct (the "Code") aims to demonstrate to its stakeholders and the public the Company's commitment to conduct itself ethically.

The Code applies to all employees, officers and members of the Board of Directors of Corus and its subsidiary companies. The Code is available on the Corus Entertainment website at www.corusent.com under the Investor Relations section.

k) Risk Factors

A discussion of risks affecting the Company and its business is set forth under the heading “Risks and Uncertainties” in the Management’s Discussion and Analysis for the year ended August 31, 2014, as contained in the Company’s 2014 Annual Report, which discussion is incorporated by reference herein. In addition, the Company is subject to the risks and uncertainties set forth below in the discussion of the Canadian communications industry’s regulatory environment.

These descriptions of risks do not include all possible risks, and there may be other risks of which the Company is currently not aware.

l) Control of Corus by the Shaw Family

JR Shaw and members of his family and the corporations owned and controlled by JR Shaw and members of his family (the “JR Shaw Group”) currently own a majority of the outstanding Class A participating shares in the capital of Corus. The Class A participating shares are the only shares entitled to vote in all circumstances other than those listed under Capital Structure (ii) Voting Rights. All of the Class A participating shares held by the JR Shaw Group are subject to a Voting Trust Agreement entered into by such persons. The voting rights with respect to such Class A participating shares are exercised by the representative of a committee of five trustees. Accordingly, the JR Shaw Group is, and as long as it owns a majority of the Class A participating shares will continue to be, able to elect a majority of the Board of Directors of Corus and to control the vote on matters submitted to a vote of Corus’ Class A participating shareholders.

CANADIAN COMMUNICATIONS INDUSTRY - REGULATORY ENVIRONMENT

Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (“CRTC”)

Under the Broadcasting Act (Canada), the CRTC is responsible for regulating and supervising all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system with a view to implementing broadcasting policy objectives set forth in the Broadcasting Act. The regulations, policies and decisions of the CRTC can be found at www.crtc.gc.ca.

Changes in the regulation of Corus’ business activities, including decisions by regulators affecting the Company’s operations (such as the granting or renewal of licenses; decisions as to the rights to programming licenses to competitors in the Company’s markets) or changes in interpretations of existing regulations by courts or regulators, could adversely affect the Company’s results of operations. The Company’s CRTC licenses must be renewed from time to time and cannot be transferred without regulatory approval.

As the introduction of digital technology is changing the technical infrastructure of entertainment and information consumption, the CRTC has adopted a new framework for regulation of specialty television.

The CRTC has also introduced policies related to vertically integrated companies that are BDUs that speak to matters such as undue preference and other carriage issues.

In 2011, the CRTC also adopted a “group based licensing” approach for the renewal of the television licenses of larger groups such as Corus. This established a framework of policy and regulation that is applied on a group basis rather than on an individual licensee.

In October 2014, the CRTC completed the public element of a broad television policy review which it called “Let’s Talk TV”. The Commission’s stated key issues were as follows:

- Maximizing choice and flexibility (pick and pay);
- Relationships between broadcasting distribution undertakings and programmers;
- Ways to foster local programming, including a regulatory model for conventional television; and
- Ways to foster compelling Canadian programming, including program production, promotion, exhibition and Canadian programming expenditures.

The detailed policy matters touched on many areas beyond these points. The Commission had proposed that a new regulatory framework would come into force on December 15, 2015, however, a final decision is still pending. During the public hearing, the Commission suggested that the status quo on carriage matters could be an option and it also suggested that the timelines for implementation could be extended. This policy review was also coloured by the Government direction included in the Speech from the Throne that jobs be protected.

The potential outcome of this process is difficult to predict and as such, Corus is unable to quantify the potential impacts at the present time. These could be materially adverse to Corus' financial results.

Industry Canada

The technical aspects of the operation of radio and television stations in Canada are also subject to the licensing requirements and oversight of Industry Canada, a Ministry of the Government of Canada. More information can be found at www.ic.gc.ca/eic/site/icgc.nsf/eng/home.

Restrictions on Non-Canadian Ownership

The legal requirements relating to Canadian ownership and control of broadcasting undertakings are embodied in a statutory order (the "Order") from the Governor in Council (i.e. Cabinet of the Canadian federal government) to the CRTC. The Order is issued pursuant to authority contained in the Broadcasting Act. Under the Order, non-Canadians are permitted to own and control, directly or indirectly, up to 33 1/3% of the voting shares and 33 1/3% of the votes of a holding company which has a subsidiary operating company licensed under the Broadcasting Act. In addition, up to 20% of the voting shares and 20% of the votes of the operating licensee company may be owned and controlled, directly or indirectly, by non-Canadians. The Order also provides that the Chief Executive Officer and 80% of the members of the board of directors of the operating company must be resident Canadians. In addition, where the holding company is less than 80% Canadian-owned, the holding company and its directors are prohibited from exercising any control or influence over the programming decisions of a subsidiary operating company. There are no restrictions on the number of non-voting shares that may be held by non-Canadians at either the holding company or licensee operating company level. The CRTC, however, retains the discretion under the Order to determine as a question of fact whether a given licensee is controlled by non-Canadians.

The Company's articles currently give its Board of Directors the authority to restrict the issue, transfer and voting of its Class A participating shares and the transfer of its Class B non-voting participating shares for the purpose of ensuring that Corus remains qualified to hold or obtain licenses to carry on any broadcasting or programming business.

Broadcasting Services

Corus' radio stations and conventional television undertakings, specialty and pay television networks are subject to licensing and regulation by the CRTC. The Broadcasting Act gives the CRTC the power to issue and renew broadcasting licenses for a maximum term of seven years. Historically, all licenses issued by the CRTC have been consistently renewed except where there have been serious breaches of license conditions or regulations, in which case the licenses have been renewed for less than seven years, or, in a very limited number of instances, not at all. In order to conduct its business, Corus maintains its licenses in good standing. The CRTC has never declined to renew a license held by any broadcasting undertaking in which Corus holds an ownership interest.

Licenses issued by the CRTC generally set out the terms and conditions of the broadcaster's program offering, including Canadian content expenditures, Canadian exhibition requirements and signal delivery terms for Corus' specialty and pay television networks. The CRTC also imposes restrictions on the transfer of ownership and effective control of all licensed broadcasting undertakings. Transferees of ownership or control of a licensed undertaking must demonstrate to the CRTC that the transfer is in the public interest, and the purchaser is required, in most instances, to provide a specific package of tangible benefits designed to benefit the Canadian broadcasting system. For transfer of ownership applications involving profitable radio stations, tangible benefits are required to represent a financial contribution equal to 6% of the purchase price and for acquisitions of conventional television, or specialty or pay television network services, a financial contribution of 10% of the value of the transaction is expected. In recent decisions, the CRTC has taken a broad definition of what the “purchase price” is. A purchaser is also required to demonstrate how the purchase is considered to be in the public interest.

The CRTC’s regulations that apply to radio, conventional television and specialty and pay television services require these broadcasting undertakings to obtain the prior approval of the CRTC in respect of any act, agreement or transaction that, directly or indirectly, would result in (i) a change in the effective control of a broadcasting undertaking; or (ii) a person together with any associate acquiring control of 30% or more of the issued voting securities, or 50% or more of the common shares, of a broadcasting undertaking or (iii) of a person that has, directly or indirectly, effective control of that broadcasting undertaking. The Commission has augmented these tests through its “Diversity of Voices” policy, which allows it to examine a transaction if certain market share thresholds are met. (Please refer to Broadcasting Public Notice CRTC 2008-4 January 15, 2008.)

Radio Undertakings

The CRTC no longer regulates the formats of commercial FM radio stations except in the case of “specialty” radio licenses which, by definition, require that (i) the language of broadcast is neither French nor English; (ii) more than 50% of the programming is spoken word; or (iii) less than 70% of the musical selections broadcast are not pop, rock, dance, country or country-orientated selections. For non-specialty format FM stations, the CRTC continues to require that less than 50% of the musical selections broadcast each week be “hits” which are defined in English markets as any selection which, prior to December 31, 1980, achieved a Top 40 position in any of the charts recognized by the CRTC. On April 30, 1998, the CRTC announced certain changes to its commercial radio policy. By regulation, the CRTC increased Canadian popular music content levels broadcast to 35%. For French-language radio stations, at least 65% of popular, vocal music selections must be in the French language. The CRTC also changed ownership restrictions on the number of stations that could be owned within a particular market. The ownership changes allow a single owner to operate up to three stations provided only two are in the same band, in a given language in smaller markets and, in markets with eight or more commercial stations in a given language, one owner may hold up to two AM stations and two FM stations. In assessing transactions involving a change in control or ownership, the CRTC has stated it will examine the impact on diversity of news voices, the level of competition and, if the applicant has equity holdings in other local radio stations or media, cross-media ownership levels in a given market. Under its new policy, the CRTC also stated that it would no longer apply market entry criteria in assessing applications for new radio services in a particular market. Radio broadcasters derive substantially all of their revenues from advertising revenues. There is no regulatory limit on the number of commercials that can be broadcast. In markets with more than one commercial FM station, FM licensees are required to broadcast at least 42 hours per week of local programming in order to access local advertising.

On December 15, 2006, the CRTC released its most recent review of radio policy. The new policy maintained current levels of Canadian Content music required of broadcast licensees. The contributions required of licensees to Canadian Talent Development was renamed to Canadian Content Development, the amounts payable are related to prior year revenues, and the list of eligible recipients was amended. (Please see Commercial Radio Policy 2006, BPN 2006-158.)

Specialty and Pay Television Networks Undertakings

Specialty and pay television networks each have varying Canadian programming and expenditure requirements set by a condition of license. These requirements depend on a number of factors, including the nature of the service and the types and availability of programming offered. The Canadian content conditions of license are reviewed by the CRTC at the time that the networks renew their licenses. Licensees are also required to make financial contributions to the creation of Canadian programming which is imposed by condition of license.

Specialty television networks derive substantially all of their revenues from subscription and advertising revenues. Pay television networks derive their revenues from subscriptions and by regulation are required to be commercial free. The CRTC generally requires cable and DTH satellite distributors to carry all licensed specialty and pay television networks appropriate to the markets in which they are distributed, with the exception of Category B services as described below. The maximum wholesale subscriber fee that can be charged to subscribers for the carriage of the service is regulated if it is carried as part of the basic service, but is not regulated if it is carried on an extended or discretionary tier. Subscriber fees payable to pay television network licensees are not regulated by the CRTC.

As of September 1, 2011, the CRTC issued specialty television licenses in five categories described as Category A, Category B, Category C, Pay and section 9(1)(h). Each category comes with certain carriage rights and obligations including exhibition and Canadian content.

For further information, please consult the CRTC web site at www.crtc.gc.ca.

Canadian Content Requirement for Broadcasters

As mentioned previously, Canadian conventional television services, specialty television networks and pay television networks are required to devote a certain amount of their programming schedules to Canadian productions. These requirements provide support for Canadian programs (such as the ones produced through Nelvana) as long as they qualify as Canadian programs, for purposes of the Canadian Audio Visual Certification Office (“CAVCO”), as an officially recognized co-production by the CRTC.

CAVCO and the CRTC determine the criteria for qualification of a program as “Canadian”. Generally, a program will qualify if it is produced by an individual Canadian producer with the involvement of individual Canadians in principal functions, and where a substantial portion of the budget is spent on Canadian elements. In addition, the Canadian producer must have full creative and financial control of the project.

Film, Television, and Interactive Digital Media Tax Credits and Grants

Various federal and provincial tax credits are available for qualifying productions of television series and feature films and typically provide benefits of as much as 40% of the Canadian production budget. These tax credits are calculated on the basis of each individual production.

Additionally, provincial tax credits are available for the development and production of various interactive digital media products such as websites and games and generally provide benefits of 40% of the qualifying expenditures by a qualifying corporation. These tax credits are also calculated on the basis of each individual product.

Additional funding for its productions of television series, feature films and interactive digital products are also available from various Canadian industry funding sources, including the Canadian Media Fund and Telefilm Canada in respect of feature films.

International Treaty Co-Productions

Canada is a party to co-production treaties with many countries throughout the world, excluding the United States. These international co-production treaties allow for the reduction of the risks of production by permitting the pooling of creative, technical and financial resources of Canadian producers with non-Canadian producers under prescribed conditions. Canadian co-production treaty partners include France, Great Britain, Germany, New Zealand and Australia. A production that qualifies as a co-production for treaty purposes is considered to be a domestic product in each of the participating countries and, as such, is entitled to many aspects of national treatment in each country. More specifically, the co-production usually qualifies for domestic treatment under applicable broadcasting legislation and certain government subsidies. The co-producers jointly hold the copyright in the production. Sharing of foreign revenues is based on the respective contribution of each co-producer, subject to negotiation between the co-producers and approval by the appropriate government authorities. Many of Nelvana's productions are produced through international treaty co-productions.

Competition Act Requirements

The Commissioner of Competition has the authority, pursuant to the Competition Act (Canada), to inquire into mergers and apply to the Competition Tribunal for remedial orders, including an order blocking a merger, where the Commissioner determines the merger is or will likely prevent or lessen competition substantially in a market. To facilitate the Commissioner's review of mergers, parties to a merger transaction are required to pre-notify the Commissioner of Competition prior to completing the transaction when specified party and transaction-size thresholds are satisfied. For example, in the case of an asset purchase, a transaction is notifiable if the parties to the transaction, together with their affiliates, have assets in Canada or annual gross revenues from sales in, from or into Canada, that exceed $77 million and if the aggregate value of the Canadian assets to be acquired or annual gross revenues from sales in or from Canada generated from those assets exceed $77 million. The Commissioner can now also invoke a two stage notification and review process, which can serve to prolong the approval process for a transaction.

Ownership transfers of licensed broadcasting undertakings exceeding these financial thresholds thus require the approval of both the CRTC and the Commissioner of Competition according to their respective statutory mandates. The two authorities could come to different conclusions on a given transaction. For example, the CRTC could approve a broadcasting company's acquisition of radio stations as being in accordance with its commercial radio policy whereas the Commissioner of Competition might conclude that the acquisition would substantially lessen competition in the market or markets under consideration.

Investment Canada Act

Under the Investment Canada Act ("ICA"), certain transactions which involve the acquisition of control of a Canadian business by a non-Canadian require the approval of the Canadian government. The Ministry of Industry (Canada) is responsible for reviewing proposed acquisitions of control of Canadian businesses by non-Canadians. However, where the Canadian business is a "cultural business," the proposed acquisition would also be subject to review by the Minister of Canadian Heritage. Cultural businesses include those involved in the publication, distribution or sale of books, magazines, periodicals and newspapers, as well as businesses involved in the production and distribution of film and video recordings, audio and video music recordings. Radio, television and cable television broadcasting undertakings are also considered "cultural businesses" under the ICA, but they are also the subject of other, more stringent, Canadian ownership and control regulations under the Broadcasting Act, as discussed above.

Before an acquisition of a "cultural business" by a non-Canadian can be completed, the non-Canadian must be able to demonstrate that the proposed acquisition is likely to be of "net benefit to Canada." In determining whether this test has been met, the Minister of Canadian Heritage is required to take into account a number of factors outlined in the ICA, including compatibility with Canada's cultural policy objectives, as well as any applicable government policies and any written undertakings that may have been given by the non-Canadian investor.

Copyright Act Requirements

Corus' radio, conventional television, specialty television and pay television undertakings rely upon licenses under the Copyright Act (Canada) in order to make use of the music component of the programming and other uses of works used or distributed by these undertakings. Under these licenses, Corus is required to pay a range of royalties established by the Copyright Board pursuant to the requirements of the Copyright Act to collecting societies (which represent the copyright owners) and individual copyright owners. These royalties are paid by these undertakings in the normal course of their business.

The levels of the royalties payable by Corus are subject to change upon application by the collecting societies and approval by the Copyright Board. The Government of Canada may, from time to time, make amendments to the Copyright Act to implement Canada's international treaty obligations and for other purposes. Any such amendments could result in Corus' broadcasting undertakings being required to pay additional royalties for these licenses.

CAPITAL STRUCTURE

Description of Capital Structure

(a) General

The authorized share capital of Corus consists of an unlimited number of Class A participating shares ("Class A Voting Shares"); an unlimited number of Class B non-voting participating shares ("Class B Non-Voting Shares") (and, together with the Class A Voting Shares, the "Corus Shares"); an unlimited number of Class 1 preferred shares (the "Class 1 Preferred Shares"), issuable in series; an unlimited number of Class 2 preferred shares (the "Class 2 Preferred Shares"), issuable in series; and an unlimited number of Class A preferred shares (the "Class A Preferred Shares"). As at August 31, 2014, there were 3,428,292 Class A Voting Shares, 82,335,593 Class B Non-Voting Shares and no preferred shares outstanding.

(b) Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares

(i) Authorized Number of Shares

The authorized number of Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares is unlimited. No Class A Voting Shares, however, shall be issued unless the prior written consent of holders of no fewer than two-thirds of the then outstanding Class A Voting Shares is obtained.

(ii) Voting Rights

The holders of Class A Voting Shares are entitled to one vote per share at all meetings of shareholders. The holders of Class B Non-Voting Shares are entitled to receive notice of, to attend, and to speak at all meetings of shareholders but are not entitled to vote thereat except as required by law and except upon any resolution to authorize the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of Corus or the distribution of assets among its shareholders for the purpose of winding up its affairs, in which event each holder of Class B Non-Voting Shares will be entitled to one vote per share.

(iii) Dividends

In general, subject to the rights of any preferred shares outstanding from time to time, holders of Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares are entitled to receive such dividends as the Board of Directors of Corus determines to declare on a share-for-share basis, as and when any such dividends are declared or paid, except that, during each Dividend Period (as defined below), the dividends (other than stock dividends) declared and paid on the Class A Voting Shares will always be $0.005 per share per annum less than the dividends declared and paid in such Dividend Period to holders of the Class B Non-Voting Shares, subject to proportionate adjustment in the event of any future consolidations or subdivisions of Corus Shares and in the event of any issue of Corus Shares by way of stock dividends. A "Dividend Period" is defined as the fiscal year of Corus or such other period not exceeding one year in respect of which the directors of Corus have an announced current policy to declare and pay or set aside for payment of regular dividends.

(iv) Rights on Liquidation

In the event of the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of Corus or other distribution of assets of Corus for the purpose of winding up its affairs, all property and assets of Corus available for distribution to the holders of Corus Shares will be paid or distributed equally, share for share, between the holders of Corus Shares without preference or distinction.

(v) Conversion Privilege

Any holder of Class A Voting Shares may, at any time or from time to time, convert any or all Class A Voting Shares held by such holder into Class B Non-Voting Shares on the basis of one Class B Non-Voting Share for each Class A Voting Share so converted.

Subject to certain exceptions described below, if an Exclusionary Offer is made, any holder of Class B Non-Voting Shares may, at any time or from time to time during a Conversion Period, convert any or all of the Class B Non-Voting Shares held by such holder into Class A Voting Shares on the basis of one Class A Voting Share for each Class B Non-Voting Share so converted. For the purpose of this paragraph, the following terms have the following meanings:

“Conversion Period” means the period of time commencing on the eighth day after the Offer Date and terminating on the Expiry Date;

“Exclusionary Offer” means an offer to purchase Class A Voting Shares that:

- (A) must, by reason of applicable securities legislation or the requirements of a stock exchange on which the Class A Voting Shares are listed, be made to all or substantially all holders of Class A Voting Shares who are residents of a province of Canada to which the requirement applies; and
- (B) is not made concurrently with an offer to purchase Class B Non-Voting Shares that is identical to the offer to purchase Class A Voting Shares in terms of price per share and percentage of outstanding shares to be taken up exclusive of shares owned immediately prior to the offer by the Offeror, and in all other material respects (except with respect to the conditions that may be attached to the offer for Class A Voting Shares), and that has no condition attached other than the right not to take up and pay for shares tendered if no shares are purchased pursuant to the offer for Class A Voting Shares, and for the purposes of this definition, if an offer to purchase Class A Voting Shares is not an Exclusionary Offer as defined above but would be an Exclusionary Offer if it were not for sub-clause (B), the varying of any term of such offer shall be deemed to constitute the making of a new offer unless an identical variation concurrently is made to the corresponding offer to purchase Class B Non-Voting Shares;

“Expiry Date” means the last date upon which holders of Class A Voting Shares may accept an Exclusionary Offer;

“Offer Date” means the date on which an Exclusionary Offer is made;

“Transfer Agent” means the transfer agent for the time being of the Class A Voting Shares; and “Offeror” means a person or company that makes an offer to purchase Class A Voting Shares (the “bidder”), and includes any associate or affiliate of the bidder or any person or company that is disclosed in the offering document to be acting jointly or in concert with the bidder.

Subject to certain exceptions, the foregoing conversion right shall not come into effect if:

- (A) prior to the time at which the offer is made there is delivered to the Transfer Agent and to the Secretary of Corus a certificate or certificates signed by or on behalf of one or more shareholders of Corus owning in the aggregate, as at the time the Exclusionary Offer is made, more than 50% of the then outstanding Class A Voting Shares, exclusive of shares owned immediately prior to the Exclusionary Offer by the Offeror, which certificate or certificates shall confirm, in the case of each such shareholder, that such shareholder shall not:
 - a. tender any shares in acceptance of any Exclusionary Offer without giving the Transfer Agent and the Secretary of Corus written notice of such acceptance or intended acceptance at least seven days prior to the Expiry Date;
 - b. make any Exclusionary Offer;
 - c. act jointly or in concert with any person or company that makes any Exclusionary Offer; or
 - d. transfer any Class A Voting Shares, directly or indirectly, during the time at which any Exclusionary Offer is outstanding without giving the Transfer Agent and the Secretary of Corus written notice of such transfer or intended transfer at least seven days prior to the

Expiry Date, which notice shall state, if known to the transferor, the names of the transferees and the number of Class A Voting Shares transferred or to be transferred to each transferee; or

- (B) as of the end of the seventh day after the Offer Date there has been delivered to the Transfer Agent and to the Secretary of Corus a certificate or certificates signed by or on behalf of one or more shareholders of Corus owning in the aggregate more than 50% of the then outstanding Class A Voting Shares, exclusive of shares owned immediately prior to the Exclusionary Offer by the Offeror, which certificate or certificates shall confirm, in the case of each such shareholder:
- a. the number of Class A Voting Shares owned by the shareholder;
 - b. that such shareholder is not making the offer and is not an associate or affiliate of, or acting jointly or in concert with, the person or company making the offer;
 - c. that such shareholder shall not tender any shares in acceptance of the offer, including any varied form of the offer, without giving the Transfer Agent and the Secretary of Corus written notice of such acceptance or intended acceptance at least seven days prior to the Expiry Date; and
 - d. that such shareholder shall not transfer any Class A Voting Shares, directly or indirectly, prior to the Expiry Date without giving the Transfer Agent and the Secretary of Corus written notice of such transfer or intended transfer at least seven days prior to the Expiry Date, which notice shall state, if known to the transferor, the names of the transferees and the number of Class A Voting Shares transferred or to be transferred to each transferee; or
- (C) as of the end of the seventh day after the Offer Date, a combination of certificates that comply with either clause (A) or (B) from shareholders of Corus owning in the aggregate more than 50% of the then outstanding Class A Voting Shares, exclusive of shares owned immediately prior to the Exclusionary Offer by the Offeror, has been delivered to the Transfer Agent and to the Secretary of Corus.

(vi) Modification

Neither class of Corus Shares may be subdivided, consolidated, reclassified or otherwise changed unless contemporaneously therewith the other class of Corus Shares is subdivided, consolidated, reclassified or otherwise changed in the same proportion and in the same manner.

(vii) Offer to Purchase

Corus may not make an offer to purchase any outstanding Class A Voting Shares unless at the same time it makes an offer to purchase at the same price and on the same terms as to payment an equivalent proportion of the outstanding Class B Non-Voting Shares.

(viii) Redemption

The Corus Shares are not redeemable at the option of either Corus or the holder of any such Corus Shares.

(c) Class 1 Preferred Shares

The Class 1 Preferred Shares are issuable in one or more series. The Board of Directors may fix from time to time before such issue the number of shares which is to comprise each series then to be issued and the designation, rights, conditions, restrictions and limitations attaching thereto, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the rate of preferential dividends and whether or not such dividends shall be cumulative, the dates of payment thereof, the redemption price and terms and conditions of redemption, including the rights, if any, of the holders of Class 1 Preferred Shares of such series to require the redemption thereof, conversion rights, if any, and any redemption fund, purchase fund or other provisions to be attached to the Class 1 Preferred Shares of such series.

The holders of Class 1 Preferred Shares of any series shall not be entitled to receive notice of, to attend or vote at any meeting of shareholders of Corus, other than a meeting of holders of Class 1 Preferred Shares, as provided by applicable law.

The shares of each successive series of Class 1 Preferred Shares shall have preference over the Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares as to dividends of not less than 1/100th of a cent per share, and shall not confer upon the shares of one series a priority over the shares of any other series of the Class 1 Preferred Shares in respect of voting, dividends or return of capital. If any amount of cumulative dividends or any amount payable on return of capital in respect of shares of a series of Class 1 Preferred Shares is not paid in full, the shares of such series shall participate rateably with the shares of all other series of Class 1 Preferred Shares in respect of accumulated dividends and return of capital. The Class 1 Preferred Shares and each series thereof shall rank junior to and be subject to in all respects to the preferences, rights, conditions, restrictions, limitations and prohibitions attached to the Class A Preferred Shares.

(d) Class 2 Preferred Shares

The Class 2 Preferred Shares are issuable in one or more series. From time to time before any such issue, the directors may fix the number of shares which is to comprise each series then to be issued and the designation, rights, conditions, restrictions or limitations attaching thereto, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the rate of preferential dividends and whether or not such dividends shall be cumulative, the dates of payment thereof, the redemption price and terms and conditions of redemption, including the rights, if any, of the holders of Class 2 Preferred Shares of such series to require the redemption thereof, conversion rights, if any, and any redemption fund, purchase fund or other provisions to be attached to the Class 2 Preferred Shares of such series.

The holders of Class 2 Preferred Shares of any series shall not be entitled to receive notice of, to attend or vote at any meeting of shareholders of Corus, other than a meeting of holders of Class 2 Preferred Shares, as provided by applicable law.

The shares of each successive series of Class 2 Preferred Shares shall have preference over the Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares as to dividends in right of payment and shall not confer upon the shares of one series a priority over the shares of any other series of Class 2 Preferred Shares in respect of voting, dividends or return of capital. If any amount of cumulative dividends or any amount payable on return of capital in respect of shares of a series of Class 2 Preferred Shares is not paid in full, the shares of such series shall participate rateably with the shares of all other series of the Class 2 Preferred Shares in respect of accumulated dividends and return of capital. The Class 2 Preferred Shares and each series thereof shall rank junior to and be subject to in all respects to the preferences, rights, conditions, restrictions, limitations and prohibitions attached to the Class A Preferred Shares and the Class 1 Preferred Shares.

(e) Class A Preferred Shares

In accordance with the provisions of subsection 26(3) of the Canada Business Corporations Act (the "CBCA"), the directors of Corus may add to the stated capital account maintained for Class A Preferred Shares the whole or any part of the amount of consideration received by Corus in an exchange for property, or shares of another class, or pursuant to an amalgamation referred to in section 182 of the CBCA or an arrangement referred to in subsection 192(1)(b) or (c) of the CBCA. The Class A Preferred Shares shall be redeemed (the "Class A Redemption Amount") at the amount of consideration received therefore as determined by the directors of Corus at the time of issuance. No Class A Preferred Shares shall be issued by Corus at any particular time if, at that time, there are Class A Preferred Shares issued and outstanding

The holders of the Class A Preferred Shares shall not be entitled to receive notice of, to attend or vote at any meeting of shareholders of Corus, subject to the CBCA.

When and if declared by the directors of Corus, the holders of Class A Preferred Shares shall be entitled to receive out of the net profits or surplus of Corus properly applicable to the payment of dividends, a non-cumulative dividend at such rate as the directors may from time to time determine. Upon the liquidation, dissolution or winding up of Corus, or other distribution of the assets of Corus or repayment of capital to its shareholders for the purpose of winding up its affairs, the holders of Class A Preferred Shares shall be entitled to receive for each such share, in priority of the holders of Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares, the Class A Redemption Amount per share together with all declared but unpaid dividends thereon (the “Class A Redemption Price”). After such payment the holders of the Class A Preferred Shares shall have no right or claim to any of the remaining assets of Corus. Class 1 Preferred Shares, Class 2 Preferred Shares, Class A Voting Shares and Class B Non-Voting Shares shall rank junior to and shall be subject in all respect to the preferences, rights, conditions, restrictions, limitations and prohibitions attached to the Class A Preferred Shares. The Class A Preferred Shares are redeemable at the demand of Corus and are retractable at the demand of a holder of Class A Preferred Shares at the Class A Redemption Price.

Share constraints

The statutes which govern the provision of broadcasting services by Corus and its regulated subsidiaries impose restrictions on the ownership of shares of Corus and its regulated subsidiaries by persons that are not Canadian. (See information under the heading “Canadian Communications Industry Regulatory Environment – Restrictions on Non-Canadian Ownership”). In order to ensure that Corus and its regulated subsidiaries remain eligible or qualified to provide broadcasting services in Canada, the Articles of Incorporation of Corus require the directors of Corus to refuse to issue or register the transfer of any “Voting Shares” (defined as the Class A Voting Shares and any other shares of Corus carrying voting rights under all circumstances or by reason of an event that has occurred and is continuing, and includes a security that is convertible into such a share and a currently exercisable option or right to acquire such a share or such a convertible security) to a person that is not a Canadian if such issue or transfer would result in the total number of such shares held by non-Canadians exceeding the maximum number permitted by applicable law. In addition, the directors of Corus are required to refuse to issue or register the transfer of any Voting Shares to a person in circumstances where such issue or transfer would affect the ability of Corus and its regulated subsidiaries to obtain, maintain, amend or renew a license to carry on any business. The Articles of Incorporation of Corus further provide that if, for whatever reason, the number of Voting Shares held by non-Canadians or other such persons exceeds the maximum number permitted by applicable law or would affect the ability to carry on any licensed business, Corus may, to the extent permitted by corporate or communications statutes, sell the Voting Shares held by such non-Canadians or other persons as if it were the owner of such shares. The Articles of Incorporation of Corus also give the directors of Corus the right to refuse to issue or register the transfer of shares of any class in the capital of Corus if (i) the issue or the transfer requires the prior approval of a regulatory authority unless and until such approval has been obtained; or (ii) the person to whom the shares are to be issued or transferred has not provided Corus with such information as the directors may request for the purposes of administering these share constraints.

Ratings

The following table sets forth the ratings assigned to Corus’ Senior Unsecured Guaranteed Notes by DBRS Limited (“DBRS”) and Standard & Poor’s Rating Services (“S&P”):

Security	DBRS ⁽¹⁾	S&P ⁽²⁾
4.25% Senior Unsecured Guaranteed Notes due 2020	BB(high)	BB+

Notes:

- (1) DBRS’ credit ratings are on a long-term debt rating scale that ranges from AAA to D, which represents the range from highest to lowest quality of such securities rated. A rating of BB by DBRS is the fifth highest of ten categories and is assigned to securities that are of speculative, non-investment grade credit quality. The capacity for the payment of financial obligations is uncertain. The assignment of a “(high)” or “(low)” modifier within each rating category indicates relative standing within such category. The “high” and “low” grades are not used for the AAA and D categories.

- (2) S&P's credit ratings are on a long-term debt rating scale that ranges from AAA to D, which represents the range from highest to lowest quality of such securities rated. A rating of BB by S&P is the fifth highest of ten major categories. According to the S&P rating system, obligations rated 'BB', 'B', 'CCC', 'CC' and 'C' are regarded as having significant speculative characteristics. An obligation rated 'BB' is less vulnerable to non-payment than other speculative issues; however, it faces major ongoing uncertainties or exposure to adverse business, financial, or economic conditions which could lead to the obligor's inadequate capacity to meet its financial commitment on the obligation. Ratings from AA to CCC may be modified by the addition of a plus (+) or minus (-) sign to show relative standing within the major rating categories.

Credit ratings are intended to provide investors with an independent measure of the credit quality of an issue of securities. The foregoing ratings should not be construed as a recommendation to buy, sell or hold the Notes, in as much as such ratings do not comment as to market price or suitability for a particular investor. Any of the foregoing ratings may be revised or withdrawn at any time by the respective rating organization if, in its judgment, circumstances so warrant.

	Fiscal year ended August 31,

Audit Fees

Audit fees were for professional services rendered by Ernst and Young LLP for the audit of the Company's annual financial statements and services provided in connection with statutory and regulatory filings or engagements.

Audit-Related Fees

Audit-related fees were for assurance and related services reasonably related to the performance of the audit of the consolidated financial statements and are not reported under "Audit Fees" above. These services consisted of employee benefit plan audits, assistance with adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), non-statutory audits of wholly-owned subsidiaries, fees in relation to the prospectus and system conversion audits.

Fees disclosed in the table above under the item "all other fees" represent products and services other than the audit fees, audit-related fees and tax fees described above.

The Company's Audit Committee has implemented a policy restricting the services that may be provided by the auditors and the fees paid to the auditors. Prior to the engagement of the auditors, the Audit Committee pre-approves the provision of the service. In making their determination regarding non-audit services, the Audit Committee considers the compliance with the policy and the provision of non-audit services in the context of avoiding impact on auditor independence. Each quarter, the Audit Committee reviews the non-audit services performed by the auditors on a year-to-date basis, and any proposed assignments for pre-approval, if appropriate.

LEGAL AND REGULATORY

Corus is involved, from time to time, in various claims and lawsuits incidental to the ordinary course of business, including intellectual property actions and acts for defamation. Adverse determinations in litigation could result in the loss of proprietary rights, subject the Company to significant liabilities, or require Corus to seek licenses from third parties, any one of which could have an adverse effect on the business and results of operations. Actions which are incidental to the business are typically covered by insurance and management has estimated the potential liability and provided for the amount in its financial statements. Corus does not anticipate that the damages which may be awarded in any material action of which the Company is currently aware will exceed its insurance coverage in a material way. While no assurance can be given that these proceedings will be favourably resolved, Corus does not believe that the outcome of these legal proceedings will have a material adverse impact on its financial position or results of operations.

INTERESTS OF MANAGEMENT AND OTHERS IN MATERIAL TRANSACTIONS

MATERIAL CONTRACTS

Senior Secured Credit Facility

A syndicate of lenders has provided Corus with a senior secured revolving (the "Revolving Facility") and a senior secured term credit facility (the "Term Facility") under the Amended and Restated Credit Agreement dated February 3, 2014 (the "Credit Agreement").

The Revolving Facility consists of a committed credit of $500 million that matures February 11, 2017. As a revolving facility, amounts borrowed may be repaid and re-borrowed as required through the term of the Revolving Facility. The commitment expires at the maturity date and there are no mandatory reductions to the committed amount, subject to certain covenants, during the term of the facility. As at August 31, 2014, approximately $185 million of the Revolving Facility was drawn.

The Term Facility consists of an advance of $150 million that matures February 3, 2016. As a term facility the amounts borrowed may be repaid but once repaid are no longer available to re-borrow. As at August 31, 2014 the Term Facility was fully drawn.

Advances under the Credit Agreement are available in either Canadian or U.S. dollars at the option of Corus. Interest rates applicable to Canadian dollar advances, at Corus' option, are equal to (i) the Canadian prime rate, or (ii) Bankers Acceptance rates for terms up to six months, plus, in each case, an applicable margin. Interest rates applicable to U.S. dollar advances, at Corus' option, are equal to (i) the U.S. base rate, or (ii) the U.S. London inter-bank offered rate ("LIBOR") for terms up to six months, plus, in each case, an applicable margin. Margins will vary based on the type of advance and debt to cash flow ratios achieved.

The Credit Agreement requires that Corus comply, on a quarterly basis, with certain financial covenants including maximum debt to cash flow ratio tests and a minimum interest coverage ratio test. The Credit

Agreement also includes negative covenants that, subject to certain exceptions, may restrict or limit the ability of Corus (and its significant operating subsidiaries) to, among other things, incur, assume or permit to exist additional indebtedness or encumbrances, engage in mergers, consolidations, amalgamations or other reorganizations, sell or otherwise dispose of significant assets, make investments, declare dividends or repurchase equity securities, engage in activities that adversely affect the ranking or validity of the lenders' security.

The Credit Agreement contains certain customary representations and warranties, positive covenants and events of default, including payment defaults, covenant defaults, cross-defaults to other material indebtedness or other material agreements, insolvency or bankruptcy defaults, material judgments, material breach of representations and warranties and failure to maintain security. If an event of default occurs and continues, the lenders are entitled to take all actions permitted to a secured creditor including the acceleration of amounts due.

The lenders under the Credit Agreement have a first ranking charge on the present and future property of Corus, including the present and future property of its significant operating subsidiaries. Those subsidiaries have provided guarantees to the lenders and securities pledge agreements have been entered into relative to the ownership interest in most of the significant operating subsidiaries.

Trust Indenture for 4.25% Senior Unsecured Guaranteed Notes due 2020

On February 11, 2013, Corus issued $550 million in Senior Unsecured Guaranteed Notes bearing interest at 4.25% per annum and maturing on February 11, 2020 (the "Notes"). Proceeds from the Notes were used primarily to redeem Corus' previously issued $500 million, 7.25% Senior Unsecured Guaranteed Notes due 2017 effective March 16, 2013. The Notes are governed under a Trust Indenture with BNY Trust Company of Canada as Trustee dated February 11, 2013 (the "Indenture"). Terms of the Notes include those stated in the Indenture.

The Notes are unsecured. Subsidiaries that have provided guarantees under the Credit Agreement also provide unsecured guarantees on the Notes. Interest is payable semi-annually in arrears in equal installments on February 11 and August 11 of each year that the Notes are outstanding. Interest on the Notes will be computed on the basis of a year of 365 or 366 days, as the case may be, based on the actual number of days elapsed, and will accrue from day to day. The Notes are redeemable at the option of Corus, in whole or in part, at any time at a redemption price equal to the greater of (a) 100% of the principal amount of the Notes to be redeemed; or (b) the Canada Yield Price (as defined in the Indenture), plus accrued and unpaid interest thereon.

The Indenture governing the Notes contains covenants that, among other things and subject to exceptions and qualifications, may limit or restrict Corus' ability to engage in transactions with affiliates, incur additional indebtedness, sell or otherwise dispose of significant assets, declare dividends or repurchase equity securities, make investments, engage in mergers, consolidations, amalgamations or other reorganizations that result in a change of control, create unrestricted subsidiaries, incur or suffer to exist liens, or, in the case of restricted subsidiaries, guarantee indebtedness.
